

Tencent Music Entertainment Group Announces Executive Responsibility Changes

SHENZHEN, China, March 8, 2019 /PRNewswire/ -- Tencent Music Entertainment Group ("Tencent Music", "TME", or the "Company") (NYSE: TME), the leading online music entertainment platform in China, today announced that Mr. Andy Wai Lam Ng has volunteered to withdraw from his management position as Group Vice President for personal reasons. Mr. Ng and the Company's Board of Directors reached an agreement, in which Mr. Ng will advise the Company on strategic copyright partnerships as Group Senior Consultant, effective March 8, 2019. Mr. Ng will continue to report to the Company's Chief Executive Officer, Mr. Cussion Kar Shun Pang. Mr. Tsai Chun Pan, a Group Vice President who was previously in charge of Ultimate Music, a business unit that provides online music services to smart devices and automobile manufacturers, will assume Mr. Ng's responsibilities in copyright management. Simultaneously, Mr. Cheuk Tung Tony Yip will assume Mr. Pan's role in managing Ultimate Music while retaining his current position as the Chief Strategy Officer of the Company.

During Mr. Ng's tenure as Group Vice President in copyright management, he was widely recognized for establishing strong relationships between Tencent Music and its content partners and developing successful business models that have not only transformed the ecosystem for artist development and audience engagement, but also benefited China's music entertainment industry as a whole. As Group Senior Consultant, Mr. Ng will continue to support the Company's copyright management initiatives alongside Mr. Pan as part of the Company's long-term strategy to provide high-quality music content and promote copyright protection.

Prior to joining Tencent Music as Group Vice President responsible for Ultimate Music, Mr. Pan worked as the head of entertainment services for Nokia Greater China from 2005 to 2013, and in 2014, he established Ultimate Music, which was acquired by Tencent Music in 2017. Prior to joining Tencent Music in 2018 as Chief Strategy Officer, Mr. Yip was vice president of Baidu, Inc. since 2015, where he served as Chief Financial Officer of the search business group and head of investments, mergers and acquisitions. Mr. Yip also served on the board of directors of Ctrip.com International Ltd from 2015 to 2017.

"We are confident that in their new roles, Tsai Chun and Andy will be able to leverage their extensive experience in the Chinese music entertainment business, forge new alliances with our content partners, augment our copyright protection initiatives, and facilitate the healthy growth of the domestic music entertainment industry," stated Mr. Cussion Kar Shun Pang, Chief Executive Officer of Tencent Music. "Andy's significant contribution to our success in promoting copyright protection over the years has made us a partner of choice for artists and content owners. Going forward, we will continue to benefit from Tsai Chun's and Andy's tremendous expertise in developing new forms of music content and strategic copyright partnerships. In addition, Tony's track record in strategic development makes him an ideal leader to spearhead the growth of Ultimate Music and make our music services ubiquitous across a broad range of connected devices."
